A group of young people returning to their hometown, picked up their hoes and started a new brand, upholding the spirit of "hard work and diligence." " They promote traditional indigenous crops in Taiwan, such as millet, roselle, and red quinoa. They reclaim wasteland to increase production, implement non-toxic farming practices and organic cultivation, and develop various high-quality processed products. They have established partnerships with over 200 domestic and international collaborators. The name "Patagilj" in the Paiwan language represents the concept of "source," signifying the passing down of indigenous "food" culture by us.
